Baron de Constant Believes World's Peace Wil Rest on Gigantic Air Fleets.

When he landed in Plymon's. Eng. ment mission in America, was present with his son, Lieut. Paul d'Estournelles de Constant.

"I was in Paris." the Baron began, had been welcomed formally by the Mayor and the Town Clerk and repre-sentatives of the British army and Navy and all the steam craft in the harbor had literally blown off the tops of their whistles in an acclaim of welcome, an American gob overstepped the limits of el etiquette enough to whisper in ear of Lieut.-Commander Albert Taint a marker to what you're goin' to get at home."

When he arrived in New York on the steamship Zeppelin and was welcomed by his wife and representatives of naval, military and civil officialdom Commander Read decided that the gob was right. When he got to Washington he learned that the gob was dead right. At the Walderf yesterday he concluded that the gob was worthy of promotion.

Read and his fellow aviators, Towers and Bellinger, here here followed. and Bellinger, have been doing little else but receive congratulations since they returned and these came to a climax yesterday in a luncheon yesterday given jointly by the Aero Club and the Chamber of Commerce of Queens—the bor-cugh from which the flight started. Medals were presented to the three com-manders and to H. C. Richardson, the man who had much to do with the de-signing of the NC planes and who piloted the NC-3.

If the 800 or more persons who attended the luncheon expected to hear from Towers, Read or Bellinger any graphic, highly colored account of the dangers and hardships of the first transatiantic flight they were disappointed. Neither of the trio, nor any member of their intrepld crews, most of whom also were present, are talkative men; that is, where they themselves are concerned. But if any members of the Aero Club or anybody else wanted to hear a few cold, practical suggestions regarding the future of aviation, they heard them.

Incidentally, everybody present had the argument whether a seaplane is a the argument whether a scaplane is a more efficient factor in combat than a dirigible settled once and for all. The dirigible, as represented by one Jack Snyder, came to earth for the count after three rounds close range combat with one Ed Apples, the human hydroplane, who admits a speed of forty knocks a The bout was a sunrise affair staged between speeches, much enjoyment of the sailor-aviators.

Telegrams were read from prominent officials who could not be present, including Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Secretary of War Baker, Major-Gen. Charles T. Menohor, head of the aviation service; William G. McAdoo, Major G. Reed Landis, second American ace, and one from the Brazilian Aero Club of Rio de Janeiro.

R. A. C. Smith acted as toastmaster part of the time when he wasn't referee of the dirigible-hydroplane bout. He withheld decision on the speeches, but gave the bout to the hydroplane. H. Pushae Williams, president of the Queens Chamber of Commerce, made a short speech of welcome to the filers. Commander Towers, first of the guests

Baron de Constant said that the most practical result to follow the trans-atlantic flights was the formation of an international aerial police force. He international aerial police force. He urged unity of the allied nations in this direction and said that such an interna-tional aerial police force would be the only complete and efficacious defence of the League of Nations. He added :

American army and even an American mies, knowing that, would begin by enjoying indeed a real immunity in their aggression. Edward Abeles, widely known on the American stage, and who had been appearing recently in the caste of "Oh. Lady! Lady!" died yesterday in Dr. MacWilliams's Sanitarium. He underwent an operation some time ago, rallied, and until Monday appeared to be recovering. Then he developed pneumonia and grew steadily worse.

Mr. Abeles was in his forty-ninth year, and in his early career as an actor supported many of the best known stars in this country. One of his biggest successes was made in "Brewster's Milions," in which he had a principal part. He was a member of the Lambs Club and several fraternal organisations. He leaves a widow, a brother, Samuel Abeles of St. Louis, and a sister, Mrs. Lena Vogel of Freeport, L. I. Funeral patrol over the enemy lines.

The Rev. Duncan H. Browne, pasto of Christ Church, Staten Island, and haplain of the 305th Infantry of the Seventy-seventh Division, pronounced the benediction as the tablet was un-veiled. As chaplain of the 305th, Dr. Browne had been cited by Gen. Pershing for numerous acts of gallantry under fire. Hesides the entire staff of The Eve-

Court Issues Order to Wm. R. Ste. gle, Said to Have Document.

William R. Siegle, secretary of the W Johns-Manville Corporation and pres-dent of the Fibre Corporation, has been ordered by Surrogate Cohalan to show name Tuesday before him in Surrogate's Court why he should not be compelled to produce the will of Louise Castle, an actress, who died June 5. Mrs. Lily V. Andrews, a sister of the lead woman, made application yester-lay for the order through Robert H. they for the order through Robert H. Charlton, her attorney. Mrs. Andrews, who lives at 116th street and Seventh avenue, says she has ascertained that Siegle has possession of her sister's will through a communication she received from Richard E. Weldon, an attorney with offices in the Times Building. Mrs. Andrews asserts that Siegle has told several friends he obtained the will from the decedent, and that there is no necessity for him to product it or file it for probate, as Miss Castle left every-thing she possessed to him.
